Contemporary style is a modern style in contemporary interior, its history goes back to the style of Minimalism. That is, this style is the successor of minimalism that has entered our lives. Minimalism is an inconspicuous style due to its simplicity. For this reason, it has been partially complicated over time and has given us a new "Contemporary style" of our time. There are three basic rules that create style:

1. Simplicity,
2. Functionality
3. Convenience.

At the same time, the general atmosphere of the interior of this style is characterized by nobility and elegant flair.

Contemporary walls are usually painted in calm warm shades, and the ceiling is covered with white plaster. Furniture is placed in the interior without soft edges. A compositional solution is achieved in a situation where the contemporary is far away from the sharp edged devices. Lighting equipment is placed in the norm. Lighting should be suitable for each type of activity. For example, special lighting of the workplace in the kitchen, comfortable warm light in the living room, dim floor lamps for evening comfort.

Contemporary - the principles of its organization are based on fashion trends and production. This style is widely used in the interiors of high-rise buildings, and luxurious things are approached in a distant state. Due to the fact that the practicality and elegance of the style attracted many people, it is possible to use it in the living environment today. The space is organized down to the smallest detail, putting too many details in one place can create weight in the interior. In smaller studios, doors are replaced with glass panels to save space and let in light. Non-functional decor elements are not accepted in modern interiors. Each element must perform a clearly defined function. It is allowed to use elements of other styles in vague harmony, but not in this style. Stylistic additions should match the basis of the interior in color and atmosphere.
